INTRODUCTION

Once more we have the pleasure of presenting to our readers a new issue of the Mennonite Year Book and Directory. In it you will find quite a number of articles dealing with various phases of the work of the Mennonite Church. However, in a book of this size not nearly all of our church work can be covered in articles. At the same time we trust that our readers will find these articles both interesting and informative concerning our mission, educational, relief, and other church activities. We suggest that you give them a careful reading.

The main part of the Year Book is taken up with statistics. These may be considered quite dry by some people, but if one is interested in the progress and development of the different phases of our church work he will find much that is very interesting. When looking for information concerning General Conference, District Conferences, the various Church Boards and Committees, Foreign and Home Missions, Charitable Institutions, Educational Institutions, the Publishing House, Relief Organizations, and the names and addresses of Bishops, Ministers, and Deacons of all branches of the Mennonite Church you will find it in the Year Book. Consult the Table of Contents on the opposite page to find what you want to know.

It is always interesting to watch the growth of the Church from year to year. The spiritual growth of course cannot be compiled into statistical forms. But we shall call attention to a few facts concerning the numerical growth. The total membership of the Mennonite Church now stands at 52,403, as listed on page 76, a gain over last year of 1,095. This is not a large increase to be sure, but we are glad that, after all, we are a growing church. The membership in the United States is 46,063, a gain over last year of nearly a thousand. We trust that we are also growing spiritually as well as numerically.

The Sunday School Statistics are also very interesting. Study the table as given on page 36. You will find that there are 488 Sunday schools listed and that the total enrollment is now 67,592. Notice also that there are 6,040 teachers. We praise the Lord for the noble work done by our Sunday school army.

Let us look at the financial situation for a few moments. On page 6 you will find a Summary of money contributed through the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities during 1934, a detailed account of contributions for the various causes given month by month. The totals for 1934 are $171,692.34. This is an increase over the previous year of $7,436.24. This is the first time since 1930 that an increase in contributions has been shown in our records. We are glad for this upturn and believe it is an earnest of continued increases in the coming years.

In the Summary of Events on page 30 we find that 25 bishops, ministers and deacons answered the last roll call during the year. The new ordinations just about balance the losses. The Lord's work must go on. As workers leave the ranks to serve in the other world, the Lord calls new recruits to the ranks. May they be faithful servants in His vineyard.

New mission stations are constantly being opened and a number of these are listed in the Year Book for the first time. Among these is the new mission in Africa. May we unitedly pray for the work of all our church activities, asking the Lord to direct and bless so that His will may be done and the Kingdom may be extended here on earth.

ACTIVITIES OF THE MENNONITE BOARD OF MISSIONS AND CHARITIES

By D. D. Miller

In giving a report of the mission activities of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities for 1934 it is difficult to know what to include and what to leave unsaid. First of all I want to voice our profound thanksgiving to our Heavenly Father for His continued blessings to us and for His goodness and His wonderful work to the children of men.

The year 1934 is past and gone, irrevocably. We cannot undo the mistakes we have made nor regain the opportunities to do good which we have lost. We and others may suffer because of these mistakes and lost opportunities, but as we rehearse and prayerfully consider them we can and should learn valuable lessons therefrom that will help us to do better in the coming year.

The year just past has truly verified again the saying of Jesus, "In the world ye shall have tribulation." Indeed, there have been trials, tribulations, vexations, and perplexing problems, but we rejoice that in Him we may have peace and He who has said conditionally, "Lo, I am with you," has not forsaken His own. Praise His holy name.

One of the especially encouraging features of our Mission work in the past year has been the manifest Christian spirit in giving—not grudgingly—not to be seen of men—but with a willing mind and cheerfully. Allow me to quote only a few expressions: "Enclosed find one thousand dollars for India, also one thousand dollars for South America. Do not use my name." "Enclosed find five hundred dollars to be used wherever most needed. Do not use my name." "Enclosed find $200.00. Use it where you think best. Matt. 6:3." "Here is $450.00. Use where you think best. Withhold my name." "Enclosed find $70.00. Use where it will do most good. John 3:16." "Enclosed find the annuity check which you sent me some time ago. Have held it a while and feel that I can get along without it. Distribute it to the following. . . ." These could be multiplied, but let this suffice. "God loveth a cheerful giver." May we pray that our giving may be according to His plan.

We are glad to say that in the midst of world depression and the most severe drought our country has ever experienced we did not have to retrench or even stand still in our mission activities.

In Chicago, where our oldest city mission is located, we have rented a hall on Halstead Street and have regular Sunday school and various Christian activities in the Spanish language, with a midweek preaching service in English. This work is supervised and carried on by the workers at the Home Mission, 1907 South Union Avenue, and David Castillo, a Mexican brother who has been in our congregation at the Home Mission for several years. A number have been received into the Church by baptism, and the Sunday School and other activities are encouraging.

At Kansas City the much needed addition to the Children's Welfare Home was built this past year. Through the specified gifts and earnings of quarter fund and saving boxes and donations of labor a good substantial building has been erected. We have paid out in money, besides labor donations etc., some over $9,000.00 for this addition. The building is practically finished except the heating plant and furnishings. We have adhered strictly to our policy of "not to go into debt." We believe the Lord in His own way will have the needed funds supplied to complete and furnish this Children's Home.

At the Mennonite Mission at Lima, Ohio, by the hearty co-operation of the neighboring congregations, the church building and residence were re-roofed and re-sided and other needed improvements were made. This made a marked improvement.

At La Junta, Colorado, where our Hospital and Sanitarium are located, we availed ourselves of the offered P.

W. A. labor on several of the buildings which had been given by La Junta as an endowment when we built the new hospital. The Board furnished material, and P. W. A. donated labor. We furnished approximately $1,000.00, and the donated labor amounted to more than that. This puts our buildings in a much better condition and increased our income in rents very substantially.

At other stations repairs and minor improvements were also made.

Brother Lloy Kniss and family, who were temporarily in charge of the Mission at Fort Wayne, left there in November for the Johnstown District in Pennsylvania, their former home.

Brother Newton Weber and family from Waterloo, Ontario, are now in charge of the work at Fort Wayne.

Our interest in foreign mission work has likewise kept up and moved forward. Our Sisters' Sewing Circles have raised about $800.00 for the Girls' Industrial School, which has been forwarded and is being used now in India.

In May Bro. J. N. Kaufman and family returned home on furlough, and in June Sister Sarah Lapp and Bro. Joseph D. Graber and family returned to India. With them sailed Doctor Fred S. Brenneman and family, new missionaries.

In June Bro. J. L. Rutt and family returned to South America. In November T. K. Hershey and wife came home from South America on furlough, and in the same month Bro. Nelson Litwiller and family returned to South America.

During the year we have been able to send $3,000.00, which had been raised for orphanage work in the Argentine, to the field for this work, and a twenty-acre truck farm was purchased. We are hoping to be able to send them more money for this work soon.

While India and South America are the only foreign countries in which we do mission work directly under this Board, we are glad to say that we are interested in foreign work under other Boards. We especially note the interest taken in the work in Africa which was opened during 1934 by the Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities. We are glad that we have been able to send them approximately $900.00, which had accumulated at our office for African work, together with gifts received here from time to time for this purpose. May the Lord abundantly bless this work in saving souls.

Concerning finances, our exchange in the Argentine is very good at the present time, while in India it is just the opposite. Our collections on endowment and annuity investments are better than they were for the past several years. Our offerings are somewhat higher than a year ago. No doubt if our entire constituency were more completely weaned from luxury and worldliness and more fully consecrated to His cause there would be an abundant increase in the offerings.

Concerning the officers and workers of the Board at the various institutions and stations we believe that in general the missionary zeal and spirit is good and wholesome and Biblical, but no doubt we could all improve some, and some of us might improve much by being more prayerful, more practical in living the simple, economic, self-sacrificing, separate-from-the-world life by word and deed. As workers we need again and again to take an inventory of our own lives and see whether we are faithful stewards. It is so easy to grow lax and careless with the funds earned by others and given with a sacrifice.

In conclusion we feel grateful for the harmonious co-operation of the entire constituency and pray that we may "continue in the faith grounded and settled, and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel." With the year 1935 come new opportunities to learn, to grow, and to achieve things worth while. Here are things worthy of our best efforts—but they can only be attained by the direction and help of Almighty God and by men and women filled with the Spirit of Jesus Christ.

Brethren pray for us.

Elkhart, Ind.

"Seek those things which are above."

A BRIEF REPORT OF THE WORK OF THE AMERICAN MENNONITE MISSION IN INDIA

By A. C. Brunk

Another year has come to a close. In the year 1934 very little of a spectacular nature has occurred in the work of the Mission. But much solid work has been done which will help in the growth and upbuilding of the Kingdom of God and the greater glory of our Savior Jesus Christ. Many souls have been brought face to face with Christ, and some of them have decided to take up their Cross and follow Him all the way. A larger number of others are still counting the cost. Many wish that they could become His disciples without having to run the risk of being cast out by their relatives and caste people. It is still the offence of the Cross that keeps so many people away from Christ, the only source of salvation.

Another effect of the faithful preaching of the whole Gospel has been that some have definitely and finally turned their backs to Christ. It is indeed a regrettable fact that some should take such an attitude, but with them it is a matter of personal choice. However, we hope and believe that the number are comparatively small who have made this fatal decision. But each year the number of those who are becoming better acquainted with the teaching of Christ are increasingly sharing a greater readiness to hear more of the Gospel.

The number of baptisms was less this year than in former years. There were only 42 baptized in the whole Mission. Will you join us in praying that God will this coming year give us many more souls for the glory of Jesus Christ?

Very little expansion of our work has been permitted due to limited finances. But we are indeed very grateful to our Heavenly Father that He has made it possible for us to carry on the work with practically no reduction in our effort for the expansion of the Kingdom.

We also wish to acknowledge our gratitude to our Heavenly Father who has put it into the mind of a Mohammedan Landlord in the Dondi district to give about a half acre of land free of charge to the Mission for the opening up of a new preaching station. We hope soon to build there a new spiritual lighthouse right on the border of Kankar State, in which we have not been allowed to open any mission station. And we hope that through the work at this place many people may be brought to Christ.

Regarding missionaries we praise the Lord that He has made it possible by putting it into the hearts of His people to give that a new missionary family could be sent to the field. It gave us great joy to welcome into our midst Dr. and Sister Fred Brenneman. They are now very busy with language study. They have been appointed to take up the work in the Hospital to begin July 1, 1935. We also had the pleasure of welcoming Sister Sarah Lapp and Bro. and Sister J. D. Graber on their return from furlough. Sister Sarah Lapp is already very busy giving the good news of Christ to the village people, while Bro. and Sister Graber are busy teaching in the Bible department of the Academy.

We are indeed very glad that we have been able to complete the New Academy building. It was dedicated for the advancement of His Kingdom in the cause of education on December 20, 1934.

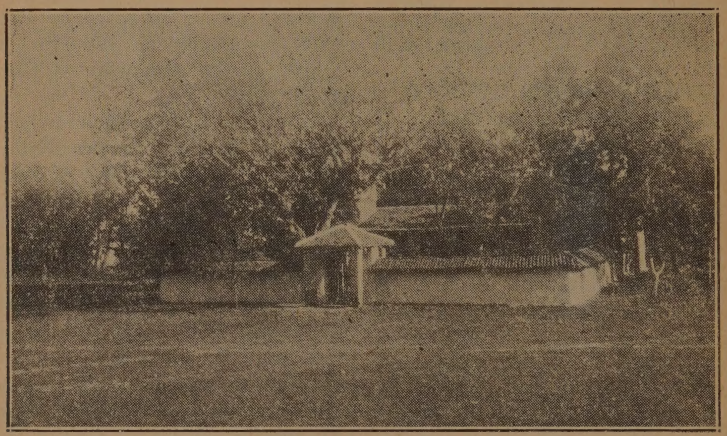
This building now supplies a long felt need in our community. There has been a steady growth in attendance in all the departments of the school. There are a total of 269 students enrolled, and of this number 126 are from the Christian community and the remaining are Hindus and Mohammedans from Dhamtari and the surrounding villages.

The Bible is taught daily to all these students, and we believe that this teaching will be the means of bringing many to accept Christ as their Savior in time.

We are indeed happy to say that out of a total of twenty-two teachers on the staff sixteen are Christians, and of this number thirteen are Indians and three are missionaries, devoting part or all of their time to teaching. This year we rejoice to have several of our own boys return from college and take their place as teachers on the Academy staff. This adds much to our Church influence in the school. In this we are accomplishing what we have been working toward for a long time, that is the displacement of all non-Christian teachers by strong Christian teachers.

At the beginning of the year 1934, both Bro. Miller and Sister Wenger were unable to carry on their work due to illness, but God has blessed and they both recovered their health and have been able to carry on their work. The health of the other missionary group has been good.

The work in the Leper Asylum has been growing. The number of inmates has greatly increased, so that now preparations are under way to erect some new buildings to house those who seek help in the Leper Home. God has also blessed those in the Home with spiritual blessings in planting into their hearts the Christian message of salvation that they may find comfort in their suffering through Jesus Christ.



The Front of the New Home in Dondi

The work at the Hospital and medical dispensaries has also been very encouraging. Many have come to be healed in body and have received also the message of Jesus Christ which is able to heal the disease of their souls, a remedy for which most of them stand in urgent need. We have God's promises that all faithful sowing of the Word of God shall not be fruitless.

Our Present Field of Labor

From year to year our field of labor has grown. That is, we have reached out from the larger centers of population to outlying towns. These towns, entered during the last three or four years, vary in size from 2000 to 7000 inhabitants. When we remember that there are many more such towns within our reach that are not being evangelized, we feel the urge to enter them at the earliest possible date. Regular services are now held in some twenty-five towns. The "Twenty Year Plan" we adopted several years ago is a plan that aims gradually to increase the amount contributed by the native church and thus release an ever-increasing amount of the funds from the homeland for extension work in new fields.

Because of the operation of this plan, some big steps in extension work are to be taken in the near future. Bro. D. P. Lantz and wife have been engaged since September, 1934, in making a study of the outlying districts by visiting a series of new towns. They remain in each for some time studying conditions and doing what evangelistic work they can. Their report will be given early in 1935, and no doubt the new work will be opened in February.

Our Congregations

Since this article is being prepared before the close of the year 1934, it is not possible to give any exact figures regarding the standing of the membership of the different congregations. We can only state that the growth of the congregations has continued favorably during the year. Several of them have now over 100 members. Also some new congregations have been started during the present year. The total membership has now passed the 500 mark, although the conference table does not yet show this figure.

In spite of the hard times the churches are doing quite well raising funds toward the support of the work. More encouraging still is the increased interest in evangelism on the part of the laymembers.

The Outstations

The outstations are generally taken care of under handicaps. Since there is usually no resident pastor at such stations, it is not possible to expect a rapid growth. At some of these stations we have young women workers located. They are occupied teaching children and in Sunday school and home visitation. Although this plan has been tried for just a year, we believe that it is worth while. The pastors in charge of these outstations make their visits by automobile or train, either weekly or biweekly. In Bragado an active lay member visits a number of outstations. The expense for this work is our biggest problem. Since in most of these places the membership is small and the people are poor, the contributions for support are quite insignificant.

Some of them can barely pay the lighting of the hall, the Sunday School supplies and a bit on the rent. During the summer season we aim to reach some of these places with the Bible coach and the Gospel tent in order to awaken an interest among the people. We ought to have lay workers at every one of these outstations, but it is not possible to secure such workers unless they can find a way to support themselves.

The Regions Beyond

Sometimes we get out a map of the Argentine Republic and look at the regions beyond where the Gospel has not yet entered. It is needless to say that we are moved by keen longing to go also to these regions and begin work. The only reasons why we cannot go to them is that we lack workers and funds. We humbly ask the churches in the homeland to stand by us by continuing to uphold the work with prayers and contributions. As the years go by the native churches will grow stronger. As the contributions here increase, more money can be released for the regions beyond.

Enrolling New Workers

The hope of the future lies in the young people who year by year are being trained for the work. We would count ourselves fortunate indeed if we could have a good Christian High School and Bible Training School combined, such as many foreign missions have had for the training of their workers. Though we have not such an institution built upon a solid educational foundation, we have at least a small beginning. Our Bible School has thus far had to give some common school training to accommodate students who came to us without having had previous advantages of the full common school course. It is the intention of those interested in the Bible School to add some High School work so as to bring the training of these young people to a higher standard.

The support problem for the school is our greatest one. The candidates for study come from homes where support for them can not be met by parents. We do not believe that it is advisable for the Mission to offer entirely free educational advantages, as well as living support. Our problem, then, is to supply some sort of remunerative work so that students can earn their way while studying. All of the students, except one, whom we have had during the year 1934, six in number, have had remunerative work. This one student received some help from home, while his room was provided by the Bible School. In 1935 we are hoping to do some more extensive planning to furnish remunerative work for students.

Special Evangelism

During the first part of the year 1934 the tent and Bible coach were used in making an extensive campaign throughout our district. It meant a lot of hard work and considerable sacrifice to see the work through, but we felt that the efforts were worth while. While the increase in membership through the campaign was not as great as we hoped, yet quite a few of the baptisms during the year were persons who made the start in the tent meetings. The campaign has started again for the summer of 1934-1935. It has been more difficult this year because of extremely wet weather. We have had an enormous lot of rain ever since the tent work started. Part of the time the tent had to be abandoned entirely. No doubt the weather will become more favorable before the season is over. Our native brethren who do most of the preaching are keenly interested and seem to be doing their best to make the work a success.

Spiritual Forces

"Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord." No foreign missionary who understands the principles upon which the work of the Kingdom is based will fail to give first place to spiritual forces as the real values in mission work. In our search for the deeper things of God we rejoice in the rich experiences of prophets and apostles who have shown us the way to spiritual victory. We know that God is "not far from every one of us" and that when we "feel after him," we shall surely "find him." As workers in His vineyard we need spiritual discernment. Will you pray that our prayer life and our devotional study of the Word may bring to us that gift? We need Christlike patience and love to deal with the many provoking circumstances in which we find ourselves. Will you pray that we may find those virtues in our deeper consecration to our Master's will? We need the wisdom necessary to carry through our daily routine work and to cope with tremendous human problems that simply must be faced and solved. Will you pray that our wisdom may always be tempered with the wisdom from above which is "first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be intreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy?"

EASTERN MENNONITE BOARD OF MISSIONS AND CHARITIES THROUGH 1934

By Henry F. Garber

The year's work is now history. Under the blessing of God we feel that progress has been made in a number of fields. A backward look may be profitable to give courage for new work and to teach lessons from past failures.

In most of our mission stations there has been a growth in membership. That is encouraging. Columbia Mission changed its Sunday school and preaching service to morning hour. This change from afternoon to morning service we feel to encourage wherever the necessary workers can be had for the morning service. There have been two extension Sunday schools established by local congregations that are doing good work. The Dillerville mission Sunday school in the western section of Lancaster is supported and manned by the East Chestnut Street congregation. The Waltonville mission Sunday school in Dauphin County is carried on by the Shope and Strickler congregations. This seeking for neglected communities at our doors and going to them results in two benefits. It brings the Gospel story to the neglected, and it brings a spiritual quickening to the congregation that carries on the work. We would like to see this movement spread to other congregations.

Last October, word came that the mission hall in Miner's Village burned down with all the contents. This building was owned by the Bethlehem Steel Co., and was used free of rent by our people. Here a flourishing Sunday school and congregation have been established. The cause of the fire is unknown. Through the kindness of the African congregation in the neighboring village, our little congregation has had a nice place for meeting each Sunday. Plans are on foot now to again have our own building. Through the kindness of the Bethlehem Steel Co., the use of a building has been donated to us. As rapidly as possible this will be prepared for the use of the congregation there. This hall has a number of rooms that can be used as classrooms, so that what seemed misfortune may prove to be a blessing after all.

In recent years a number of church buildings have been put up by the Board at our mission stations. One more has been added to this list in the past year. The hall at Sunnyside has been unsatisfactory in a number of ways. The property was rented to the mission and lately the possibility of it being sold to others was spoken of. At this writing the building is about completed. It is built of brick about 40 by 50 feet, with basement. It should prove a real help to the work at Sunnyside.

For a number of years a yearly ingathering of new and secondhand clothing was made. This year, on November 7, at the Mellinger Church, about two tons of clothing were gathered and put up in 52 bales. The most of this material was sent to Canada to supply the needs of our Russian immigrant brethren who have suffered again because of the past season's drought.

One of the new developments of the past year has been the establishment of the Mennonite Working Girls' Home in Reading. There are more than seventy Mennonite girls working in Reading. Our mission home in Reading is entirely too small to accommodate this group on their days off. Our Board owns a dwelling house near the mission. This has been made available for these girls. They are now busy furnishing this home. A matron appointed by the Board will be in charge of the home. Girls coming to Reading for work can then make this their home until work is obtained. It is quite possible that the Home may become a licensed employment agency in charge of the matron. This will contribute to the maintenance of the Home. The Board's interest in this project lies in the fact that this group of girls has been an asset to the mission work in Reading. And, furthermore, we desire that these girls may have a real home away from home.

Perhaps the outstanding event of the year has been the actual founding of our first Mennonite mission in Africa. The investigation by Bro. Elam Stauffer and Bro. Orie Miller finally led them to the northwestern part of Tanganyika Territory by the shores of Lake Victoria. The region lies but a few degrees below the equator, but is tempered a good deal because of the altitude, which is about 4500 feet. The exact location is at Shirati, just a few miles from the shores of Lake Victoria. Their post office address is Musoma, Shirati Station, Tanganyika, East Africa. Their work is among the Dhuluo tribe.

On February 18, a farewell service was held at East Chestnut Street Church in Lancaster for the outgoing missionaries, Bro. and Sister John H. Mosemann Jr., and Sister Elizabeth Stauffer, wife of Bro. Elam Stauffer, who was already on the field. A few days later they sailed from New York, and arrived at Dar-es-Salaam on April 2. After arrival on the field they at once began to lay plans for buildings. They first planned a temporary building that they could use until their bungalow could be built. At this writing their bungalow is about completed. On October 1 a primary school was started at the urgent request of a number of the natives. This work seems to be led of the Lord.

Dispensary work is being carried on too. This work is increasing, and the brethren there feel very keenly the need for a doctor on the field. One interesting development on the field is that in the school work and dispensary work a charge is made for medicines and school supplies. This plan was followed at the advice of older missionaries in that section. The policy will be that the school work shall be self-supporting.

At present we have a doctor and a nurse under appointment to the field. Dr. Lillie Shenk will go to London to take a short course in tropical medicine next April. The nurse is Sister Elma Hershberger, who is at present at Eastern Mennonite School taking Bible work. After the close of school she will join Sister Shenk in London, and together they will move on to the Africa field. They plan to arrive there about July 1.

Application has been made for a second site east of Musoma at Bukiroba. Plans for occupying this site will be made soon after the doctor and nurse arrive on the field.

Pioneer work of this kind challenges the best efforts and thinking of the missionaries and of those at the home base. It should also drive us to the feet of Him who said, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." In His name this work was undertaken and by His help we mean to carry on.

The launching of a work like this brings with it the problem of increased finances. Building station homes, equipping them, providing dispensary and hospital facilities and the transportation of missionaries long distances call for large additional sums of money to which we have not been accustomed. The brotherhood has been responding commendably during the last year. And we have this confidence that they will continue to stand by with their prayers and gifts as the work continues.

There is one more event that we want to record here as a part of the record of 1934. Bro. John H. Mellinger has been chairman of our board since its organization in 1914. Last March at our annual board meeting at Mt. Joy, Pa., Bro. Mellinger gave us an address on the subject of, "Through Forty Years of Mission Activities." It was a resumé of the growth of mission activity in the Lancaster Conference District. To many of us it was an intensely interesting address, because of Bro. Mellinger's connection with every development in mission activity among us. On his seventy-fifth birthday he witnessed the sailing of our first foreign missionaries from the pier in Brooklyn, New York. Due to advancing age, on October 1 he resigned as chairman of our board. This was accepted with regret. He, however, still remains as a member of our executive committee. Here we still will have the benefit of his experience and counsel.

We are grateful to our workers in the various fields for their faithfulness and their self-sacrificing labor of love for Him. We look into 1935 with confidence. We are assured that He who told the Church to go and preach the gospel almost two thousand years ago will be with her in 1935.

Mt. Joy, Pa.

THE MACEDONIAN CALL OF THE CITY

By Wm. G. Detweiler

Bible readers are familiar with the vision the apostle Paul had while in Troas. He saw a man of Macedonia calling, "Come over into Macedonia and help us." Paul's Macedonian call was a call to the city, as well as a call to the foreign field. Today the cities of our land are sending out their Macedonian calls to the churches. Many men, women, and children in the cities of America, were they conscious of their actual need, would say to the churches, "Come over and help us." May we notice a few reasons why we as a Christian church should hear and heed the call of the city.

In the first place, Is there a Scriptural foundation for city work? Indeed there is. Already in the Old Testament God was concerned about the city. Jonah was sent to preach to a very large city. Christ did a large part of His work in the city. When He had finished His work on earth He led His disciples outside the city for His farewell message and for His ascent to heaven. Before He ascended He gave them this parting message, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Or, to use the words of Luke in Acts 1:8, "Ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." Christ told the disciples to begin in the city, and from thence go out unto the uttermost parts of the earth. It will be recalled that the Church had its birth in the city. On the day of Pentecost the Holy Spirit fell on the disciples in the city of Jerusalem. The first sermon in the church dispensation was preached in the city. The first people were converted in the city. The first church was established in the city. In fact, the first home base of the church was a city congregation. From Jerusalem outward went the Gospel. In the eighth chapter of Acts is the record of how the city of Samaria received the Gospel; again there was city work. The first recorded church conference was held in the city. Follow the journeyings of the apostles of the early church, and you will find that much of their work was devoted to the cities. Paul visited many cities and founded many churches in the cities of the Roman empire. In fact, in Rome, the metropolis of the empire, there was a Christian church. With these few thoughts in mind no one can say that city work is not in the program of God. Have we as a church heard the call of the city? Have we considered that many of those listed as "every creature" live in the city? Christ did not say that the Gospel should be preached to every nation only, but to every creature. Unless we include the city in our field of Gospel endeavor, we do not include all that Christ named in His marching orders to the Church.

As a second reason why we should hear and answer the city's call, we present this fact: There are millions of unsaved souls in the city. Christ said that the outstanding characteristic of the Christian was love. He said also that the second great commandment was that we should love our neighbor as ourselves. How can we say that we love the souls of men unless we love them enough to bring them the Gospel which is the power of God unto salvation? Do we really love the multitudes in the city? It is said that one night Dr. Guthrie, minister of the Cowgate in Edinburg, and his friend, Dr. Chalmers, were standing on a bridge viewing the thousands of "submerged souls" below them. Dr. Guthrie said to Dr. Chalmers with tears, "O Chalmers, this is my golden field! See them, the dear reckless people, whom the Lord has given me to win for Him!" What a revolution might take place in the church today if we caught the vision that gripped the heart of Dr. Guthrie. As we look on the masses of submerged souls in the cities, what is our vision? Do we actually feel that here are thousands upon thousands for whom Christ died, and whom He would have saved? Or do we try to excuse ourselves with making ourselves believe that this is not a part of our field? Do we think the field is too vast, or the condition of the people too low to attempt to help them? Christ saw something in the multitudes in the cities that brought tears to His eyes. Recall how He mourned over the multitudes in Jerusalem, saying, "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!" When He saw the multitude at another time, He was moved with compassion toward them. What is our reaction to the multitude? In a multitude there is so much sorrow, so much sin, so much distress, that it would sicken or deaden our feelings, were we conscious of it all.

During the World War there was a song which stated that there was a broken heart for every light in Broadway. Those of you who have looked down the main streets of the large cities at night have seen myriads of lights. Shall we paraphrase this song, and read it thus, "There's a lost soul for every light in Broadway?" The next time you look over some large city, remember that for every light you see, there is very probably a lost soul in that city for whom Christ died, and whom He would have saved. What must be the mind of Christ as from heaven He looks upon the many millions in the cities of America who are unsaved, and then looks upon the church in America with her coldness and indifference to souls? May the Lord stir us, as He stirred the heart of the apostle Paul, so that we may say with Paul that we could wish ourselves accursed from Christ for the lost of earth, and that with Him we might have great heaviness and continual sorrow of heart.

As a third and last reason why the city presents a challenge to the Church of today may we think of the opportunities that are ours in the city. If there are opportunities, then there must also be responsibilities, for opportunity spells responsibility. Space will not allow a discussion of the opportunities, but may we think briefly of a few. There is the opportunity of gathering the boys and girls into religious services. The hope of the future lies largely in the attitude that is taken toward the boys and girls. Then there is the opportunity of reaching many in their homes through personal visits. This is one of the most fruitful avenues. There are other opportunities presented in the institutions, like the jails and old people's homes, where services may be held, and souls reached with the Gospel who would otherwise not hear it. Then, too, the street itself affords another opportunity. In fact, wherever one finds people there one finds also opportunities, and the greater the number of people the greater the need and the greater the opportunity. Too often we seem to think that sinners should come flocking to our churches, where we would then teach them the Word. But Christ's plan is for us to go to every creature and bring the Gospel to them. Christ told the disciples He would make them fishers of men. A fisherman does not throw his line into the stream and then expect the fish to come long distances for the bait, but he goes where the fish are. So should we as fishers of men go where the men are and catch them for Christ; whether that be in their homes, on the streets, in the shops, in the institutions, or in the church.

In conclusion, let us do all the good we can, in all the ways we can, to the greatest number that we can reach.

THE CALL OF THE RURAL FIELD

By John R. Mumaw

Last summer while listening to the tales of a middle-aged man, the writer heard the story of a lasting impression made by a rural Christian worker. He told how his own up-bringing in the "back woods" was entirely lacking in religious training. The home in which he grew up knew nothing about prayer. The community had no church services. Its environment was typical of the many neglected rural districts now calling for the Gospel.

One day while this man was only a small boy a preacher stopped at their house for dinner. The mother gladly prepared the meal and after some time called the men to dinner. This lad, with his brothers, shyly approached the table and sat down on the bench along the wall. When the places were all occupied, the boy noticed his father make a strange nod to the preacher. The little fellow could not interpret the signal nor did he understand why this stranger should undertake talking to his empty plate in such a queer manner. It was the first demonstration of prayer those boys had the privilege to observe in their father's home. The visit of that minister blessed the home with impressions that could not soon be forgotten.

This is only one illustration out of hundreds that could be drawn from the fifty million or more rural people in our own United States. Only about one fifth of this population goes to church. It has been calculated that at least ten thousand American rural communities have no church at all. At least three times that many communities have no resident pastor.

The modern trend of religious centralization and federation is doing nothing to meet the challenge of these neglected millions. Entirely too many of the best ministers prefer the urban churches where the inducement of a higher salary allures them. The well-established churches usually located in wealthy communities are often too busy with their own budgets of local improvements and current expenses to open new fields of work in less desirable communities. Where congregations are highly organized the best talent is used for the local positions and little is done to develop a teaching force for "others." There is an even greater tragedy to be found in some communities where the old-time Gospel is being preached. It may be that the congregation has not been over-organized, nor is the church taxed with a salaried ministry. Perhaps the denominational line is still clearly drawn, and the majority of members are a rural people. But when such religious groups are "at ease in Zion," without a missionary vision, and without any concern for the millions who are yet unchurched, the situation is indeed pathetic.

The Mennonite Church has not been without a testimony in many of these parts, nor has she failed entirely in her efforts to enlarge her borders. While our first city mission was established in 1893, and six years later a Mennonite mission was opened in India, a work in South America in 1917, and the initial work in Africa opened less than a year ago, it is to be remembered that our first Gospel dragnet was drawn in the rural field. In the absence of accurate records it is necessary to make an approximate guess at the time of its beginnings. We are reasonably sure, however, that it began as early as the time of the Civil War. To trace the developments of those pioneer rural missionary activities to the present would require a great deal of diligent study and much careful investigation. Many of the facts related to those early days will without doubt never be recovered.

These more than seventy years of witnessing in the rural field have borne much fruit in the kingdom of God. Today there are approximately one hundred rural mission stations scattered throughout the church. Some of that number are more or less loosely organized, but they mark the locations of definite Gospel work.

We may well be highly gratified to think that our church has given a place to the convictions and zeal of men who had a rural vision of missionary opportunities. Nevertheless, we dare not pause too long in our backward gaze. The today, with its millions of unsaved scattered throughout the rural sections of our land, presents a mighty challenge to this generation. A great call cries out of

A Great Need

In the mountain sections of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee, of Missouri, and of the Rocky Mountain regions there are over three million people, many of whom know very little or nothing of the Christ who saves. In the dry farming areas of the far western states over half of the people have no church privileges. In many of the wide grazing areas of the middle west there are practically no churches. In other sections a large percentage of people attend no worship whatever. Thousands and thousands of boys and girls are growing up without Sunday-school training, while their fathers and mothers hear no Gospel preaching. It seems that nobody cares for their souls. Practically every church community has lying within its possible reach a rural mission field populated by a scattered and neglected people; or perchance it may be a crowded and oppressed village.

The Great Commission

will never cease to call so long as there are needy fields to rebound the echoes of compassion that come from the world's Redeemer when He said, "Go ye therefore." How can the souls of Christian men be at rest when the lost are perishing with hunger? The Church is Christ's only means of bringing the true manna to the people who are in the world without spiritual bread. The commission is urgent. Its call is personal and immediate. How can they believe except they hear the Word? Let us not disappoint our Lord in failing to preach the Gospel to every creature. They need it. We have it. God will bless it in the giving. Why not go today?

The Available Material

calls to the constituted authority of the Church to provide Christian service for our young people. This is not the primary motive for rural missions, but it follows in the wake of the need and the commission. The Mennonite Church has exercised the Biblical principle of sending missionaries through her organized mission boards to city and to foreign fields and a few into rural districts. (It may be that rural work can not be so well manned through a mission board at long ranges, or is it because the board has had too little experience in rural work?) Could not then a single congregation through its own organization send of its own members out to the neighboring community? Why not use that talent which lies latent in the energetic youth and employ that unused ability of the overfed grown folks? These present a call to the wide-awake pastor and his workers to watch for opportunities and to seek for open doors. It may be that in your community there is an open door right now.

Mission Home, Roaring, West Virginia—One Place Where the Call Has Been Answered

The Unused Methods

may give rise to a call to those people whose talents, inclinations, and other considerations have led them into fields of specialized training. In many rural districts there could be splendid service done by a tactful and consecrated teacher of domestic science. In many isolated communities there are wonderful opportunities for a thoroughly Christian medical doctor. A few years ago the writer was pleased to learn that a young man, then in premedical training, recognized the great possibilities of a medical missionary in the particular rural field he was visiting. He even expressed a desire and inclination for that kind of service to the church. That student has completed his college course but, alas, in taking up postgraduate studies he changed his course and gave up his medical pursuits. Who, now, is willing? There is room for both practical and trained nurses in the rural field, and a great deal of good could be accomplished through colportage work. In one of our church institutions there is a fund (approximately five hundred dollars) waiting to be used for a Gospel truck which shall be driven through rural districts with the view of finding the needy fields. Who will undertake the task? It may be well to mention the splendid profession of public school teaching as a method of getting the Gospel into many neglected communities. This is by no means an unused method as is the case with several other professions mentioned above, but we wish to emphasize the fact that calls are coming from many directions asking for the best trained and most consecrated talent the Church can produce.

An Inadequate Program

helps to augment the call suggested in the preceding paragraphs. There has been and is a growing interest in the rural work. Subjects pertaining to the rural activities frequently appear on our mission programs. We hear quite a bit of talk about the possibilities in rural fields, and in a few communities they do more than what is talked about. The Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities has a number of resolutions on its minutes urging that something be done, but our Rural Missions Committee at the last annual meeting in May, 1934, still had nothing to report. The fact that we have a general interest and yet have no tangible outline or program for rural mission activities presents a challenge to the Church for a more definite study of the rural problems.

The call of the Rural field must be answered with the Spirit of Cross-bearing

The rural worker knows more about sacrifice than he does about publicity. If he lives in the community with his people he will be expected to do many favors. No one means to impose upon him. No one has a mind to swindle him, nor do they aim to become burdensome to the worker. They know he can do things, and they are pleased to have him help them. If the worker is engaged in rural work from the home base he makes many sacrifices of home comfort and pleasures. Duty calls him away from the family and relatives. He is deprived of many social contacts, which no doubt would be enriched by Christian fellowship. The good doctor, the efficient nurse, the successful schoolteacher, the talented preacher, and anybody else who devotes his time to rural work will no doubt make a real sacrifice, but none is too great if it is done in the interest of souls, even though the rest of the church and the most of the world never get to hear about it.

The Spirit of Conviction

must accompany any response to the call from the rural field. It may be easy enough to go to a rural Sunday school once a week and to make an occasional call in a few of the choice homes in that community, but that path does not lead to success. It is just as important to the unsaved of a rural district that the Christian worker who deals with them knows why and how he is being sent as it is to the heathen in India to have the missionary coming to him know why and how he is sent there. The Christian worker who enters his work with a consciousness that he is serving where God wants him to be will be effective and successful. He also needs to recognize that he is a leader in the community without appearing very much so to those whom he would lead. He must be filled with the Spirit and lost in Christ.

The Spirit of Consecration is essential to effective work in the rural field. It is equally as needful here as in any other mission. The rural people are just as quick to sense disloyalty in their leaders as any other group. The Christian worker who is sent into the schoolhouse as a Sunday-school teacher, whether it be on the Appalachian Highland or on the Western prairie, is expected to instruct men in the ways of salvation. He ought to realize keenly his ambassadorship and exercise faithfulness in his divine duty. It is no place for play and amusement, but a place for good mixing and tactful fishing. One needs to feel the pulse of the community by becoming all things to all men that we might by all means win some. To do that requires an additional

Spirit of Co-operation

In a certain rural mission congregation the writer heard a worker lead in public prayer at the opening of their Sunday school. One sentence impressed me quite definitely when he said in substance, "Lord, we thank Thee for the privilege of coming to these people to teach them the way of salvation." Another worker at the same place was heard making expressions like this, "I'm glad to be here to worship with you people again." "I certainly enjoyed this service with you to-day." In the former case the worker had not learned to fit himself into the group as one of them. While the second was greatly loved and highly esteemed among the native people.

There is another phase to this matter of co-operation. Some zealous and well-meaning people have unwisely pushed ahead of their church leaders and failed in their efforts or later found the door closed against them. If you have convictions, and you are willing to do some cross-bearing for the cause of rural missions, to consecrate your life and services to the cause, seek to use your influence through personal contacts first. Then if the field opens to an organized effort, you should work through recognized channels of the Church or under the approval of constituted authority.

In conclusion the writer would like to present four propositions. It is his conviction that the call of the rural field demands: (1) A review and summary of observations relating to the history of our rural missions movement; (2) An inventory and recognition of our obligations to the Gospel and to the unsaved; (3) A survey and presentation of opportunities for missionary activities in the rural districts; and (4) A study and statement of objectives to meet the challenge of these unoccupied rural fields.

WATCH CONTINUALLY

Am I fruitless? Then am I a doomed branch! To be cut off? Aye, in all probability already cut off, having but the name to live while in reality dead. O my soul, go out and weep bitterly under the cedars of Gethsemane; then sit down at the foot of Calvary and see the cross and the Christ and the blood; and then pray to be made actually, palpably, apparently, and everlastingly a partaker of the divine nature.—Dr. Hinson.

CHURCH PROBLEMS AND OPPORTUNITIES OF OUR DAY

By J. R. Shank

Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood.—Acts 20:28.

And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the Word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.—Acts 20:32.

Introductory Thoughts

Every problem coming before the Church has a proper solution resulting in success on the part of those who solve it rightly. Every problem improperly solved brings failure to those who reach the wrong conclusions. The right solutions of all the problems of life are reached by the proper application of all the principles of God's truth which have any connection with the problem in hand. And the wrong solution is always due to the failure to apply right principles to the problem in hand.

We must solve every problem of the Church. We dare not ignore them or approach them wrongly. But if we meet them honestly and take God's way we are sure of a blessing and a large measure of success.

To say that we have no problems or to deny certain conditions before us as problems, is to confess ourselves spiritually asleep, indifferent, blind, or dead. To work at the problems without seeking to enter into the underlying principles, may mean untold labors without effect, and great loss. Perhaps one of the great problems of the day is to get the entire brotherhood to approach their problems from the right point of view, taking into consideration the underlying Gospel principles that are involved in a right solution.

Some Problems of Our Day

To test our responsiveness to them, let us rehearse the statement of the General Problems Committee at the General Conference. If we have responded to these and to the suggestions for their solution, we may consider ourselves at least partly awake to our own Church activities and life. But if we do not find ourselves responsive, there is a question whether we can be interested in a further discussion, unless a statement from a different angle will arouse us. The statement of the Committee is as follows:

1. Promotion of Spiritual Life among the Membership.
2. Unification of Standards.
3. Scriptural discipline.
4. Secret societies and Kindred Organizations.
5. The Insurance Problem.
6. Worship, as Distinguished from Entertainment and Amusements.
7. The Dress Question.
8. Support of the Ministry.
9. Supplying the Field with Workers.
10. School Problems.
11. Conservation of Our Young People.
12. Occupying the Entire Gospel Field (See Report for full discussion).

We shall endeavor to state some problems in terms that are akin to the above statements, though in different language, as they appeal to the writer.

1. Living the Unrebuked Life.—"That ye may be blameless and harmless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world; holding forth the word of life" (Phil. 2:15, 16). To be a perfect light-bearer is the greatest service that God's Church can render upon earth. To labor at the problem, in God's way, of bringing the people of God into that position before God and men that their life is without rebuke in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation is a service that is sure of the blessing of heaven.

2. Keeping the Candlestick in His Place.—"Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent" (Rev. 2:5). One of the things that calls for more travail in prayer and the earnest endeavor of God's servants to apply right principles, is the fact that so many are not remembering from whence they have fallen, are not aware that they are out of God's order, do not feel that they have left their "first love." Oh that we might be brought to the place where we shall be ready to repent of our failings and continue to have our candlestick in his place before Christ, shining out in the darkness of this world and bringing due honor to our Lord!

3. Maintaining our High Calling Before God.—"But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should shew forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light" (I Pet. 2:9). When Abraham and his seed after him maintained their peculiar position before God they were all that the above text implies. And when the Church of Christ today loses her nearness to the Lord as a treasure chosen of Him for a distinct purpose in the world, then she is losing out and missing her high calling. Shall we seek to maintain the Church in this position before God? Surely we must; even if she should be sifted down to only a remnant, as it was in Israel.

4. United in Testimony and Service. "Only let your conversation be as becometh the gospel of Christ: that whether I come to see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, that ye stand in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel; and in nothing terrified by your adversaries: which is to them an evident token of perdition, but to you of salvation, and that of God" (Phil. 1:27, 28). A united testimony and life is a mighty power in making the Church a spiritual protection of the saved and a saving power in rescuing the lost. Divided as professed Christendom is and as some among us are, we need to keep the principles of unity constantly in view and endeavor to "keep the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace."

5. Faithful Leadership.—Read Paul's address to the elders of Ephesus (Acts 20:17-35). The Lord counts much upon the action of church leaders and teachers. He will require much more of them because of the responsibility resting upon them. The problem of putting faithful men to the work is one that requires faithful adherence to the Lord's plan. "And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also" (II Tim. 2:2). Under this head might be mentioned the problem of getting the most faithfulness from ministers, Bible teachers, Sunday school teachers, young people's leaders, parents, missionaries, and heads of institutions.

Our Opportunities in Solving Our Problems

It is not enough to see the problems and mourn over the difficulties in solving them. We need to take Paul's admonition to the Corinthian Church—"Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong. Let all your things be done with charity" (I Cor. 16:13, 14). In order to use our opportunities successfully we must—

1. Labor According to the Lord's Conditions. A converted, regenerated membership who enter into the congregations, bearing fruits of repentance by departing from iniquity and walking in newness of life, should be the standard held up and required both of those who are received and of those who are in the Church. God's Word should be the final one in deciding all questions and should receive consideration above every tie of friendship, or kinship, or human consideration. "Whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple" (Luke 14:33). Servants of the Lord must be clean in their hearts and lives, full of faith and power, and instructed in the way of the Lord, if their service is to be effectual in the upbuilding of the cause.

2. Follow the Lord's Directions. The believer is in the world not only to fit himself to go to glory, but to fulfill the Lord's commission. The Lord has left instructions as to how the Church should be conducted and what ordinances she should observe and what relations she should maintain as "a glorious Church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish" (Eph. 5:27). He has commissioned her to go into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature. He has instructed her to teach the believers "all things." If we labor to this end, according to these directions, striving to maintain the Lord's conditions and instructions among all people, then we will be in the position in which we shall be solving every problem according to His plan and shall receive His blessing.

3. Use the Lord's Equipment.—The man of God is completely equipped with the Scripture. It is "profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works" (II Tim. 3:16, 17). The Holy Spirit is the comforter and the guide, and the power (II Cor. 3:6) to make the work of the servant of the Lord effectual. We must use the opportunity to live and walk in the Spirit and to let Him lead us in all the matters of life both spiritual and temporal.

The service rendered for the cause of Christ and the Church must partake of the spirit of self-sacrifice, by servants who are willing "to spend and be spent" (II Cor. 12:15) for the furtherance of the work of Christ and for the welfare of souls. II Tim. 2:3.

Faith and prayer is an equipment that is never used to excess in any phase of life. "Pray without ceasing." Faithful teaching is needed by faithful ministers, faithful parents, faithful Christian workers in every department of life, if the problems before the Church will receive the very best solution and result in the greatest blessing. Faithful men and women who occupy positions of responsibility must act for the Lord as in charge of a sacred trust. Whether they teach, or discipline, they must do it as unto the Lord with the view of keeping His Church pure, being true to souls in the Church, being true to souls who look to the Church as a light in the world, being true to the rising generation whose welfare will be affected for good or ill as men act rightly or wrongly in the solutions of present-day problems.

GOSHEN COLLEGE

S. C. Yoder

Goshen College is the oldest of the educational institutions of the Mennonite Church. With the exception of one year it has had a continuous existence as the successor of the Elkhart Institute, and as a liberal arts college, since 1895. The aims and purposes of the college have from the first not been altogether intellectual, but were centered in the spiritual ideals as upheld and fostered by the Mennonite church.

During the years of its existence many hundreds of young men and women have passed through its halls, many of whom today are found in the mission fields, and others are active in the ministry of the church. Many others have found their places in other walks of life where as Christians they are doing a noble work for the church.

In the beginning Elkhart Institute was largely a commercial school and an academy. Upon its removal to Goshen in 1903 the Junior College Course was added, and in 1908 the full four-year liberal arts course was first offered.

The training of teachers was always greatly emphasized, and the names of many alumni are to be found in educational positions of trust throughout the country. This is still a leading part of the program of the college, and each year many of its graduates find positions to teach in various parts of the country.

In more recent years the increase in the number of local high schools has reduced the attendance in the academy to practically nothing. On the other hand there has been a generous increase in the registration of students in the college department. The following statistics show the trends in the attendance during the last ten years:

Year	Academy	Special	College	Total
1924-25	35		78	113
1925-26	53	10	119	182
1926-27	51	20	122	193
1927-28	52	17	156	225
1928-29	49	17	176	242
1929-30	26	36	195	257
1930-31	16	47	176	239
1931-32	11	50	152	213
1932-33	6	55	180	241
1933-34	8	45	195	248

Besides this the summer session has brought to the campus varying numbers of students which are not included in the foregoing list.

The Bible has always been given a very prominent place in the curriculum of Goshen College. Within the last few years a strong Bible course is offered on the college level, and at least one year of work on the seminary level.

In order to make it possible for the greatest number of students to attend the Bible School at Goshen College, the expense has been reduced to the lowest possible point. There is no tuition charge in the Bible Department and board and room at the dormitories is offered at $100.00 per semester or $200.00 per year. This year a very encouraging number of students are availing themselves of opportunities to study at a school of their own denomination.

It is the purpose of the college administration and the Board of Education to strengthen this department in every way possible to serve the highest interests of the Church. It is the further aim to give a deep spiritual tone to the entire college with a view to preparing men and women to do their best work in whatever fields they will be called to serve.

HESSTON COLLEGE AND BIBLE SCHOOL

By Milo Kauffman

"The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad." During the past year the blessings and guidance of God have been felt and appreciated. While, in many ways, the past years have been hard and strenuous ones, yet God's sustaining grace and power have been felt.

About three years ago a bulletin was sent out to our constituency calling attention to the crisis that Hesston College was passing through. The faculty, students, and constituency seemed to realize that a crisis had been reached, and all shared the conviction that proper steps must be made to meet the crisis, and that Hesston College must not die. By the splendid cooperation of faculty and students, and the support of the constituency, and under the blessings of God it now appears that the worst of the crisis has passed. The optimistic attitude of all concerned did much by way of restoration. The attitude of the majority was that of Joshua and Caleb when they said, "Let us go up, for we are well able to overcome."

During the past two years there has been a steady and healthful growth. Two years ago the total enrollment for the year, exclusive of extension and Special Bible Term students was sixty-three, last year one hundred one, and this year it will reach nearly one hundred twenty. The Special Bible Term class two years ago was the second largest ever to attend Hesston, numbering fifty-five; last year's was the largest class in the history of our School, seventy-one. This year's class will likely exceed last year's a little.

At the opening of school two years ago it was found necessary to discontinue college courses for a year, due to depression conditions and decreased enrollment. Last year one year's work was given in college. Twenty-two college students matriculated. This year we have about the same number, a few of whom are taking the second year of college. We are looking forward to giving two years' college work.

A year ago the first year of a two-year Christian Workers' course was offered. Fifteen young people registered in these classes. A number of these are back this year, and others have come for the first year. It has become necessary to divide our Bible students into two divisions, elementary and advanced. Adding these courses has brought to us students that would not have been here otherwise. These students have been of the type that add to the spiritual life of the school. It also furnishes a training in Bible and practical Christian work that many of our young people desire and need.

Each year, the past two years, our faculty has been strengthened by the addition of one member. This has made it possible for us to enrich our curriculum by adding more courses. Last year the first years of manual training, bookkeeping, and typing were given. This year the second year of manual training is offered. Several power tools have been added to the manual training equipment.

During the past two years considerable interest has been shown, on the part of our students, for practical Christian work. Services have been held in the Newton jail, the Bethel Hospital and Old People's Home, the County Home, and at the State Reformatory at Hutchinson. Gospel teams have gone out into churches and given programs. It is hoped that soon regular Sunday school or mission work may be started in some needy place.

Perhaps something should be said concerning the finances of the school during the past years. Our policy has been to operate on the income of the School. "There is to be no deficit," were the orders of the Board of Education. "How can you do that," many have asked, "when the enrollment has fallen and student expenses lowered?" In answer to this question we say, "The Lord hath done great things for us." God has been good in answering our prayers. Little was done by way of solicitation, yet considerable was contributed by persons moved by God to do so. Stock, feed, farm equipment, foodstuff, and money were donated by friends of the College and by congregations. We greatly appreciate these gifts. The sacrificing spirit of our faculty was also a major factor in enabling us to operate without a deficit. Their allowances were extremely low. We are hoping that they may fare better in the coming years.

What of the future of Hesston College and Bible School? Under the guidance and blessings of God she shall prosper. There is a firm conviction in the hearts of many that Hesston College has a real place to fill in the work of the Mennonite Church and in the Kingdom of Christ.

It is the hope of those in charge to continue to build up a faculty that would be a credit to any academy or junior college. The members of the faculty must be educationally qualified for their work, but still more important, they must be persons of strong Christian character and conviction. The teaching of each teacher, regardless of the field in which he teaches, must have a strong theistic, Christian, Scriptural ring.

While we are anxious to see an increase in numbers in all departments of the school, this increase must not be at the expense of quality and character. Any student who will persist in unchristian attitudes and conduct should be given a short time to change, or asked to withdraw. We do not want the lives and characters of the young people sent here to be menaced by the presence of self-willed, undisciplined persons. It is gratifying to notice the splendid attitude of the student body in these matters. The disapproval of the students is marked whenever there is any serious misconduct on the part of any student or students.

Surely, there is a need today of Christian schools which maintain high Christian standards. The ideals and standards of the average high school seem to be fast tottering. Dancing, drinking, cigaret-smoking, theater-going, and other forms of immorality are the order of the day. Let us pray that they may not be tolerated in our church schools.

In conclusion, I would say that it is the desire of those in charge of the work here that Hesston College should be such an institution upon which the blessings of God may rest, a place where many young people will develop deep Christian convictions and receive a preparation that will be of untold value to them in their life work, a school that merits the support of its constituency. If it is such a school I am sure it will continue to enjoy the blessings of God and the support of our constituency.

Hesston, Kans.

"Christianity suffers more from the indifference of Christians than from the wickedness of the unconverted."

EASTERN MENNONITE SCHOOL

By A. D. Wenger

We were asked to write "a synopsis of the work of the past year and something of the outlook for the future." This is rather a difficult task unless we rewrite what has been written before on the seemingly tedious and perhaps tiresome details of the regular routine of school work. The apparent sameness, however, of school work, or even of church work, does not make it any the less important. Isaiah (28:9-13) gives us the plan to "teach knowledge" by "precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little." Educators have thought that knowledge without God and the Bible would make the nations better, but they have made more criminals. We have learned that unless "pure and undefiled" religious education forms a large part of one's knowledge it is better not to be educated.

To faculty members there is usually not so much change in a school from one year to another, especially if they continue to teach the same courses. The work, however, is not uninteresting and monotonous to the teacher who prepares each lesson with the desire to teach it better than ever before. To see students drink in new truths and gradually grow stronger educationally and spiritually is also a very gratifying experience. So there is a constant daily change. As the graduates pass on to take their places in some useful field of service and new students join our number our interest does not wane. We wish those who go the richest benedictions of heaven and continue, with much concern, to watch their progress. We welcome old students back each year, and especially do we welcome the seventy-five, more or less, who enroll for the first time as new additions to our school family, which already numbers some thousands, including all departments in all the years past. God alone knows the importance of the charge that is committed to us, for a church school can be made a great blessing or a great curse.

The students experience much also in a year. They continually explore fields of knowledge new to them. This is fascinating and thrilling to all who bend every energy to gain valuable information with the sole object of using it for the glory of God. When they discover that the realm of knowledge is so vast and that they can acquire so little of it in a day, their tendency is to feel that they are not making any progress. But their progress is even more marked than the growth of a tree. We cannot see a tree grow, but by looking at its past we see that it has grown. When looking back we also see that students have grown but teachers especially, can see them grow. The number of regular students enrolled thus far this year is 156. This is about 25 more than last year at this time.

The Bible Department is a fairly accurate barometer of the work of a church school, provided it is properly conducted and the "all things" are taught. All students take some Bible courses. An increased number of regular students are taking Elementary and Advanced Bible courses. The Bible Correspondence Department is also spreading a knowledge of the Gospel to many in various sections of the church. The Special Bible Term last year had an enrollment of ninety-six and prospects are good for a large enrollment again in 1935. The Young People's Institute last summer at the School was attended by the largest number of young people ever registered here. It lasted for four days. More than a hundred students were in each of a number of the classes. The Bible was the textbook studied and taught, and many were the lectures and sermons given.

The educational work has not undergone much change. For some years accredited High School and Junior College work have been given. Mennonite teachers who are loyal to the standards of the church compose the faculty solely. This secular educational work could be taken by many nearer home. Please examine our annual catalogue for courses taught each year, the credits given, and the teachers who are engaged in the work. It was not for mere educational purposes that the Eastern Mennonite School was built, but for the main purpose of having our young people under better influences while at school at a place where dangerous evolution and modernism are not taught but instead true science and the whole truth. The standards of the church that are harmonious with the Gospel are upheld. Such an environment we believe is congenial for character-building and Christian growth.

The spiritual life of a school is the most important of all. That may be gauged largely by the interest in Christian activities. At least the spirituality of individual students can be determined largely that way. Much depends on regular attendance and interest in the preaching services, prayer circle, Sunday school, young people's meetings, and devotional meetings. This means much spiritually to every participant. These avenues of service, together with cottage prayer meetings, jail and almshouse services, tract distribution in the City, Sunday school work and programs in outstations, are activities that are conducive to spiritual life and to the development of a strong desire to contribute to the spread of the Gospel and the saving of souls. To "depart from evil and do good," prepares young Christians for valuable service in the future.

Some years we have had from one to four students who were members of other denominations. They have been fine young people, friendly to our standards, and have not to our knowledge, been a detriment in any way to the school, as a large number probably would be, especially if they were permitted to help shape the policies of the school. If we sought of our own volition to gain patronage of all classes by making the environment sufficiently popular to be congenial and attractive to them, it would destroy the purpose of the school. Every student this year is from a Mennonite home, and nearly all are members of the Church.

The mission spirit is strong. It is evidently growing since more and more have become laborers in various stations in the home field and some have gone to Africa. Sister Elma Hershberger, who is now in school, expects within a year to sail for Africa with Dr. Lillie Shenk, whose home is also in this community. The mission prayer circle held every Sunday morning at six o'clock is evidently bearing fruit.

Interdenominationalism has been discouraged. If we take an attitude as if nearly all churches are all right and that we care but little with which one our young people unite, even though that church sanctions war, secret orders, fashions in dress, and other forbidden things, and leaves undone Bible-bidden ordinances, we might as well disband as a church and close the doors of our schools. As a safeguard our students are seldom permitted to attend the city churches, especially when we have services at the school. Our policy has been not to co-operate and mix with other denominations in their activities more than the Mennonite Church does. Only in this way can the school be a true and loyal servant of the Church that gave her existence and continues her support. We have refused many invitations to speak and render programs in churches of other denominations. Any close observer will discover that the more we mix with them the more we lose. The more we call their work all right, the more our students and other youth will leave us for so-called easier ways to heaven. We are glad for all the good work of others but by affiliation with them we have nothing real to gain but much to lose. They have nothing to lose but much to gain. They well know it too, and after profit in membership at our expense. But the saddest of all is the loss of our talented and trained youth whose gifts might have been consecrated to live and propagate a full Gospel.

Tobacco in every shape and form is prohibited to students on the ground and elsewhere. Had we yielded to the desires of a few in these days of the cigarette "craze" we might have had more students, but we would rather not have them than to stoop to their level to get them. Statistics in other schools show that those who use tobacco average much lower in their grades and in their deportment than those who do not, and they are usually no asset whatever to the spiritual life of the institution unless they yield to nobler things. The same is true of movie-goers, and therefore attending movies is also strictly prohibited.

Fashions in dress is a sin which we still oppose. We have never made the regulation garb of the church compulsory, have not sought to compel any to wear it. If a student's life is inconsistent with his Christian profession it is no credit to us or to him to ask him to masquerade his sins under a cloak of religion. A single glance at any photograph of the entire school will convince any one that we have not required a specified garb for all. We prefer to have all faithful students wear the regulation garb and strongly encourage it, but then leave it to the conscience of the student just as the conservative leaders of the church do with the membership. If "modest apparel" is given up entirely we are likely doomed for other departures. No church that has ever given up the doctrine of nonconformity was able to stem the tide of worldliness that followed. They soon gave way on other Bible doctrines. There appears to be no terminus for some who yield short of complete disregard for "Thus saith the Lord." Those who have made careful observations on the trend of the churches for several decades are alarmed at the rapidity of the drift to apostasy.

Intercollegiate games and literary contests have not been indulged in during the past year or during the entire history of the school. Students are required to take physical exercise in one way or another for the sake of good health, and to take part in literary activities for their educational and religious value. Contests with other schools would be incompatible with the wishes and policies of the church. That doubtless would tend to nullify the humble Christian spirit which we seek to instill and foster, to the loss of church loyalty, and an increase of vainglory.

The past year we have met all expenses and have made a slight gain financially. Our debt has remained much the same during the past five years of depression. Our indebtedness would be small if all who owe us would pay. Some uncollectable money due us leaves us still with a debt of about $20,000. What the future has in store for us in means, students, and service we know not. We intend to do our best and ask the Lord's guidance and blessing on our labors. "Brethren, pray for us."

The Eastern Mennonite School would have no right for existence and would never have existed had there not been a strong desire on the part of its originators to maintain and promulgate the peculiar doctrines of the Bible. The very reasons that called the School into existence should not be lost sight of, or just seldom mentioned, but they should be emphasized. The burden for the salvation of our young people laid heavy on the hearts of many who encouraged, prayed, and contributed that this institution created in their behalf, might glorify God. If we did not stand for the purposes that called it forth, and did not intend to stand for them indefinitely, we would not be true to the trust the Church has given us nor to our God.

MENNONITE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

A Review of Its Activities for 1934

By Levi Mumaw

As reported in these columns last year, the greater task then in progress was the moving of the remaining Mennonite refugees at Harbin, China. We are glad to report that this has been accomplished. On April 2, 1934, 180 Mennonite refugees, consisting of 36 families left Harbin and on April 7 sailed from Shanghai. Two families, with a total of 7 persons, remained in Germany, and the others were taken to Brazil to be located with the former refugee colonies. Unfortunately 21 persons were detained at Rio de Janeiro out of this group because of defective physical conditions. Continued efforts were made in their behalf, and our latest official report expressed uncertainty as to their final disposition.

Definite responsibility for the movement of these refugees had not been assumed by the Central Committee, but special efforts were made to assist by way of raising funds in this country to meet debts assumed on former movements. A total amount of $22,630.47 was raised for the purpose. As a result of this effort, nearly the full amount of former obligations was met and paid. This has been a great relief to the work of former efforts and has opened the way for further assistance from other relief organizations at Geneva, Switzerland, for this new movement.

Credit is due to special efforts and contacts made by Bro. O. O. Miller in Holland and Germany on his trip to Africa in the early part of the year. Through his stay in Germany, he found it possible to have very important conferences with Bro. B. H. Unruh who has been representing the work of the Mennonite Central Committee in all its Russian relief work.

The year 1934 has been a great blessing to the colony Fernheim in Paraguay. While the war between Paraguay and Bolivia had taken on more intensive activities, the colonists were allowed to pursue their natural course of duties unmolested. We trust, however, that it may be reported before another year has elapsed that this struggle is ended. Weather conditions were reported as fairly normal and the year has been quite productive. Especially is this true of the cotton crop. It has been estimated that the total net proceeds to the colony has exceeded $33,000.00 in American money and in Paraguay pesos has nearly reached the five Million mark. This has brought renewed cheer and confidence to the colony. One cannot picture the change that such a condition could bring about after the years of leanness suffered by the colony. It is to be presumed that by another year additional acreage will be planted in this crop and that all will look forward to being able to commence paying their debts to the organizations which made it possible for them to settle in this land.

At a special meeting held by the Executive Committee of the Mennonite Central Committee in Chicago, September 15, 1934, a general survey was made of the present need for further assistance by Mennonite refugees. As a result of this survey the following budget was adopted:

To cover loans made by the Committee in this country	$2,000.00
To cover obligations payable at Geneva, Switzerland, on former movements	2,000.00
For the Mennonite Home in Germany	3,000.00
For general relief purposes	500.00

Since that time a number of substantial remittances have been received and the item calling for the payment of loans in this country will soon be met. It has also been possible to send $500.00 for the Mennonite Home in Germany. We have also received a small contribution by the Holland Mennonite organization towards the debt at Geneva. Further contributions will be welcomed through our co-operating relief organizations and we appreciate the donations of our people to help meet this special budget.

HANS DENCK, THE ANABAPTIST LIBERAL

By John Horsch

Hans Denck is generally considered a notable Anabaptist leader. As concerns learning and talent as a writer he undoubtedly deserves this distinction. He represented a particular Anabaptist group, however, which was never numerous.

For a number of years Hans Denck was a student in the University of Ingolstadt in Bavaria. He obtained the Master's degree from the University of Basel. In 1524 he became rector of St. Sebaldus Classical School at Nuremberg. Upon orders from the city council, Denck submitted a confession of faith in which he set forth, among other points, his mystical views on "the inner Word," a term somewhat difficult to define. This confession was found unsatisfactory from the viewpoint of Lutheranism and Denck was consequently, in January, 1525, banished from the city. After a short sojourn at St. Gall in Switzerland he went to Augsburg in Swabia, South Germany. He was baptized here.

In the autumn of the same year Denck left Augsburg to go to Strasburg in Alsace. Banished from this city he went to Landau, then to Worms on the Rhine, where he, with Ludwig Haetzer, translated the Old Testament Prophets into German. Upon his return to Augsburg, in the autumn of 1527, he found here a large Anabaptist congregation, but attended their meetings only a few times. His failing health caused him to proceed to Basel where he died in November, 1527 (about a decade before Menno Simons' conversion).

Hans Denck is the author of a number of books. His teaching differed on important points from that of the Swiss Brethren and in fact from the Anabaptists in general. He did not accept the Scriptures as the final authority but held that "the inner Word," through which God reveals Himself to individuals, is the last authority in matters of faith. His teaching on the atonement and redemption could scarcely be recognized as Scriptural. He defended the doctrine of unconditional universal salvation. In other words, he held that all men will finally be saved. A number of contemporary writers, e. g., Urbanus Rhegius, Johannes Kessler, Sebastian Franck, and others (the two named first being personally acquainted with him) stated that in his opinion even Satan will at last be saved. Denck probably held this view, though it is not expressed in his writings. His biographer, Ludwig Keller, held the view that Denck denied the existence of Satan.

In concord with all other Anabaptists Denck rejected the doctrine of predestination, as held by Zwingli and Calvin. He insisted on the vital importance of consistent Christian living. Concerning the principle of liberty of conscience he agreed with the Swiss Brethren in the opinion that church and state should be separated and religious liberty granted by the state; no one should be oppressed or persecuted for his faith. Differing from the Swiss Brethren, however, Denck seems to have held that the same attitude of "neutrality" and comparative unconcern which the state should manifest toward religious doctrine, should also be taken by the church. At least this liberalistic view has been ascribed to Denck by certain writers, though the pertinent evidence adduced from his writings is not altogether convincing. If this was his view, he differed in this regard radically from the Swiss Brethren who denied the right to propagate any sort of religious teaching within the church. They believed that a true Christian church will stand for definite doctrine.

The supposition that Hans Denck was a leader of the Swiss Brethren, or that he in his teaching represented them, is, as just intimated, clearly contrary to fact. This supposition, based on the assumption that all Swiss and South German Anabaptists were substantially a unit in faith and practice, is an obvious error. Denck was the leader

CALLED HOME

By Daniel Kauffman

During the year 1934 an unusually large number of our people were called from time to eternity. Among these were quite a number who occupied positions of responsibility in the Church. Space will not permit a mention of all of these, but here are a few:

Ebersole, John G. (1849-1934).—Died Feb. 19. He was ordained to the ministry in the Stauffer-Risser district, in the western part of Lancaster Co., Pa., in June, 1887. He was a faithful defender of the faith, and as a disciplinarian and counsellor he was held in high esteem. In August, 1907, he was ordained a bishop, in which position he rendered faithful service until within a year preceding his death, when failing health and feebleness of age compelled him to relinquish his labors. During the last years of his bishop oversight much of the burden of his load was taken off his shoulders by the ordination of Bro. N. W. Risser as his assistant bishop.

Weldy, Henry (1862-1934).—Died Feb. 24. He was born near Wakarusa, Ind., where he grew to manhood, united with the Mennonite Church in 1885, and four years later was ordained to the ministry in the Holdeman Church near Wakarusa. He was a zealous defender of the faith, a regular attendant at conferences, wide-awake in Christian service, and in earlier years was used as an evangelist. All the Church activities, from the Mennonite General Conference to the congregational activities in his own community, had his hearty support.

Kauffman, Daniel D. (1864-1934).—Died March 26. Born in Johnson Co., Iowa, it was his lot to spend his life in a number of different states and communities. In 1896 he was ordained to the ministry in Lyons Co., Kans. Two years later he moved with his family to Wellman, Iowa, serving the Cause in the West Union congregation. At different times he served the Church at South English, Iowa, Creston, Mont., Clarence Center, N. Y., returning again to South English, Iowa in 1931, where he died. Though laboring in many fields, he knew only Jesus Christ and Him crucified.

Peachy, Christian D. (1864-1934).—Died April 14. He lived his entire life in Mifflin Co., Pa. On May 6, 1890, he was ordained to the ministry in the Old Order Amish Mennonite Church, in which capacity he served for many years, or as long as health permitted. He was the last surviving member of the fifth generation of Peacheys who came from Switzerland to America in 1746.

Shenk, Simon G. (1875-1934).—Died May 8. He was a son of Bishop J. M. Shenk, now of Denbigh, Va., but formerly of Elida, Ohio, and lived his entire life in the vicinity of Elida and Continental, Ohio. At an early age he accepted Christ and united with the Mennonite Church, remaining a faithful and active member until the Lord called him home. In 1918 he moved to Continental, Ohio, where he was called to the ministry in the Mt. Pleasant congregation, where he ministered the rest of his life. He met his death in a railway accident.

Shotzberger, Jacob (1873-1934).—Died May 13. He was an active member of the Lancaster, Pa., Mennonite Church. He took an active part in missionary work, and in other enterprises in the Church. While giving an address in Bacton Mennonite Chapel near West Chester, Pa., he was overcome and died almost instantly.

Zehr, Peter S. (1865-1934).—Died May 19. He was ordained a deacon in the East Zorra congregation near Tavistock, Ont., in 1919, and in 1933 he was called to the ministry. But his labors were cut short on earth, while his soul went home to God who gave it.

Garber, David (1862-1934).—Died June 21. Born in Elkhart Co., Ind., and died in Elkhart. Between these two events there was a busy life and widely known career. He was ordained to the ministry in the Clinton Brick Church near Goshen, Ind., in 1889. In 1896 he was one of the founders of the Mennonite Orphans' Home, founded near Weilersville, Ohio, but a few years later moved to West Liberty, Ohio. In his ministerial life he was located, at different times, at Nampa, Idaho; in California and Texas; at LaJunta, Colo., where he was ordained a bishop in 1907; at Alexandria, Va.; in Lebanon Co., Pa.; and finally at Harrisonburg, Va. He was active as an evangelist and an instructor in Bible conferences. In all his ministerial life he was a zealous defender of the faith.

Hartman, Peter S. (1846-1934).—Died July 29. To thousands of people he was known as "Uncle Pete." He was whole-hearted in his friendship with others, in his loyalty to the Church, in his service of God and man. Though never ordained, he was as active as any ordained man could well be. As a member of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities, as an active promoter of mission causes, evangelistic work, schools, and the highest interests of our young people, he will be long remembered.

Yoder, Jacob B. (1848-1934).—Died July 31. He was born in Mifflin Co., Pa., and died at Kalona, Iowa, where he had been a faithful deacon in the East Union Church for many years. He was a son-in-law of Bishop Christian Werey and father-in-law of Bishop A. I. Yoder and Pre. Amos Gingerich. Faithfulness was the mainspring of his life wherever he was placed on duty.

Bontrager, Clarence A. (1902-1934).—Died Aug. 9. He was born and died near Haven, Kans. In October, 1927, he was ordained to the ministry and for two years served the congregation near Lyman, Miss. Returning to Kansas, he spent the remaining years of his life in active service. His wholehearted service in behalf of a number of causes made him widely known, and there was general regret that his career was cut short.

Mellinger, Jacob H. (1866-1934).—Died Sept. 25. In early manhood he gave his heart to God and united with the Mennonite Church. He was superintendent of the Welsh Mountain Industrial Mission, near New Holland, Pa., from 1900 to 1904, when he was transferred to the superintendency of the Old People's Home near Lancaster, Pa., where he served one year. In 1911 he was ordained to the ministry, in which capacity he labored faithfully until the Lord took him home. He made his contributions to the Church as a preacher, as a supporter of the various missionary and evangelistic enterprises of the Church, and as a writer in our Church periodicals.

Plank, Levi L. (1861-1934).—Died Oct. 7. He was a son of Bishop David Plank and a minister of thirty-three years' experience, having been ordained in 1901. His services were mostly confined to the South Union and other congregations in the West Liberty, Ohio, district. His life preached louder sermons than any usually heard from the pulpit.

Mack, Jesse H. (1865-1934).—Died Oct. 17. He was a son of Bishop Andreas Mack of Bally, Pa., and a brother of Bishop Noah H. Mack of New Holland, Pa. In 1900 he was ordained to the ministry in the Providence Mennonite Church near Yerkes, Pa., and remained faithful in the service until the Lord called him home. He was a faithful defender and exemplar of the faith.

Shank, Joseph (1857-1934).—Died Oct. 26. He was a brother of Bishop Lewis Shank of Broadway, Va., and for many years a faithful minister in the Broadway district. He was a practical man, of sound judgment and loyal life, a friend to and supporter of every enterprise in the Church approved by the Church. Though not an eloquent man, he filled a large place in the Church.

Hallman, George (1856-1934).—Died Nov. 7. He was for many years a faithful deacon in the Detweiler Church near New Dundee, Ont., having been ordained in 1895. He was a brother of Bishop Eli S. Hallman of Tuleta, Texas.

Warye, Samuel L. (1854-1934).—Died Dec. 1. He was a son of Bishop John Warye of Champaign Co., Ohio, and for many years a deacon in the same congregation (Oak Grove) of which his father was formerly the overseer. He was an aggressive worker, a good counsellor, a valuable member of Conference.

Miller, Martin R. (1880-1934).—Died Dec. 26. In his brief services in the ministry, which was of less than two years' duration, he gave evidence of a faithful, consecrated, efficient servant of the Lord and defender of the faith. But long before his ordination to the ministry (being ordained Feb. 2, 1933, for the Landisville-Salunga, Pa., congregation) he had been an active worker in the cause of Christ and the Church. He died as a result of a fall on Christmas morning. The Lord saw fit to call him home.

"TEACH ME TO NUMBER MY DAYS"

Teach me to number my days!
Lead me to count them aright,
In the heavenly reckoning ways,
As they stand in the angel's sight.

I number them—year upon year;
They number them—act upon act.
I figure by calendars drear;
They figure by motive and fact.

I am old as the decades go by,
I am young in wisdom and grace;
Time's heralds remorselessly fly,
My soul has a cowardly pace.

I would know the arithmetic law
That reckons the worth of a thought,
And shows how the ages draw
On the work a moment has wrought.

Oh, teach me to number my days,
As the clerks record them above,
By purpose and kindness and praise,
And courage and worship and love!

—Amos R. Wells, in S. S. Times, London.

An hour of solitude passed in sincere and earnest prayer, or the conflict with and conquest over a single passion or subtle bosom sin, will teach us more thought, will more effectually awaken the faculty and form the habit of reflection than a year's study in the schools without them.—Coleridge.

of a distinct Anabaptist party which, as we have seen, differed vitally in doctrine from the Swiss Brethren. Moreover, shortly before his death he retracted his former teaching regarding the need of believers' baptism. He declared his disapproval of the Anabaptist dissent from state church Protestantism and expressed regret for ever having taught and practiced Anabaptism. Consequently his followers (among whom Hans Bünderlin deserves mention) merely formed a party within the Protestant state churches, and as such enjoyed a measure of toleration by the state. Within about two decades from Denck's death his party ceased to exist.

It is readily seen that the question of Hans Denck's relationship to the Swiss Brethren is of great practical importance. In the supposition that he is to be numbered with the early Mennonite Church fathers it is clearly implied that, historically considered, theological liberalism has a right to demand for itself a place in the Mennonite Church. Insistence on the profession of the old Bible faith by the Church would in that case be contrary to original Mennonite principle. In fact, Mennonite liberals, in their defence of liberalism, have invariably referred to Hans Denck as one of the Mennonite Church fathers, a supposition which is without any foundation in fact. Here, by the way, is an illustration showing the practical importance of reliable church history.

The translation of the Prophets by Hans Denck and Ludwig Haetzer, which was published in April, 1527, met an obvious need, since the rendering of Luther and that of the Zurich theologians were completed at later dates. Many editions of the Worms translation were printed in various places.

All human discoveries seem to be made only for the purpose of confirming more and more strongly the truths contained in the Sacred Scriptures.—Sir William Herschel.

A New Book on Evolution

The Inadequacy of Evolution as a World View

By

Chester K. Lehman A.M., Th.B.

Price $1.25

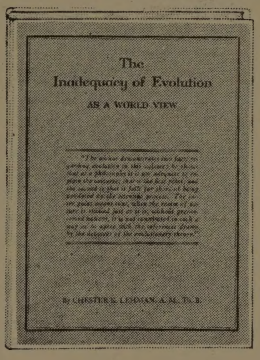
Mennonite Press

LEANDER S. KEYSER on reviewing the book says:

"One would think that this work, with a number of others of like mould and ability, ought to put the quietus on the hypothesis of evolution. We do not know of a so-called 'scientific' theory against which so many counts can be registered. There is no claim which its advocates make for it that is not thoroughly analyzed and negatived in this volume."

"Our author's theses on Christian evidence are also of a scholarly and convincing character. Being an evangelical believer, he demonstrates the reasonableness and adequacy of the Biblical account of the origin of the universe, of life and species, of man, of sin, and of redemption."

"His blows are death-dealing ones."



"Hits the theory right on the solar plexus."

"The author certainly makes his appeal to facts throughout the book. He does not deal in epithets and abuse. In most of the cases he lets the advocates of evolution state their arguments in their own way, giving direct quotations from their published volumes, with titles and pages, and then proceeds to expose their unscientific and illogical character. He has done yeoman service to the cause of scientific and Christian truth."

Cloth binding, 272 pages, size 5 x 7½ inches.
